'Tell me about yourself.'

"While I may not have any professional experience in QA engineering yet, I see myself as someone who is passionate about technology and committed to learning more about it. I've developed a reputation as someone who is detail-oriented, collaborative, punctual, and has a rich life experience.
Outside of my studies, I'm someone who is feel passion about reading, meditation, and photography.
These attributes have helped me develop a strong work ethic and a willingness to learn and grow in any role I take on.
I'm excited to have the opportunity to bring these attributes and interests to the role of QA engineer, and to continue learning and growing in the field."
